COLLECTIONS

FOR SALE BY

CHAS. STEIGERWALT,

130 East King St., Lancaster, Pa.

COLLECTION OF 1794 CENTS.

The basis of this collection is the former Phelps, which disputed with one other the position of being second to the famous Hays set, now in my possession. It was bought at a good price merely to slightly improve a very few pieces of the Hays set, the replaced pieces being transferred to this, and this collection further improved from stock. There is little difference between it and its rival for second place, a New York collection, containing several varieties not in that, while that contains several not in this.

As Hays 38 and 53 are known to be non-existent, this collection only lacks 5 of completion, Hays 30 and 44 and the 3 extra No.'s found after Hays' work was published. One of the lacking 5 is unique and the other 4 nearly so.

Too great a space would be necessary to describe each piece in detail, but it can be said that the price is very low, taking condition and rarity into consideration. In fact, after making a liberal deduction for the slight improvement to the former Hays set from the cost of the Phelps set and improvements thereto, it still represents an expenditure of over $500, but the price has been placed at less than cost.

Collection of 52 No.'s. Price, 450.00.

COLLECTION OF NEW JERSEY CENTS. 1786-1788.

New Jersey. The collection formed by the late W. W. Hays, with a few improvements. Includes the following varieties, according to Maris' work on New Jerseys:

1—A	23—P	39—a	59—o
2—B	23—R	40—b	60—p
6—C	24—P	42—c	61—p
6—D	25—S	43—Y	62—q
11—H	26—S	43—d	63—q
12—G	28—L	44—d	63—r
12—I	28—S	45—d	63—s
13—J	29—L	45—e	64—t
14—J	30—L	46—e	64—u
15—J	31—L	47—e	65—u
15—L	32—T	48—f	66—v
15—T	33—U	48—g	67—v
16—J	34—J	49—f	68—w
16—L	34—V	50—f	72—z
17—J	35—J	51—g	73—aa
17—K	37—J	52—i	74—bb
17—b	37—Y	53—j	75—bb
18—M	37—f	54—k	77—dd
19—M	38—Y	55—l	78—dd
20—N	38—Z	55—m
21—N	38—a	56—n
21—O	38—c	58—n

In addition, there are more than one specimen of the following: 2 B (8), Mark Newby, die varieties; 17 K (2), one struck over a 1787 Conn., though this variety is dated 1786; 34 J (2), one having the die badly broken through date; 48 g (2), difference in size of planchets; 56 n (3), one on larger planchet over Conn., two on smaller planchets over Conn. and over Vermont; 63 q (2), with and without die-break at shield; 64 t, large planchet (2), one a curious double strike, small planchet (2), one exceptionally heavy. Also, a T reverse, with same incused on other side.

It will be noted that all of those rated by Maris as "Common" to "Rarity 3," with two exceptions, 21 P and 27 S (both scarcer than Maris rating), are in this collection, while those from "Rarity 4" to "Rarity 6," his highest, are represented by 10, as follows: 13 J (only 4 known), 16 J (about 6), 21 O (5), 34 V (3), 40 b, 43 Y, 47 e (supposed unique; this may be Maris piece), 55 l, 66 v (3), 73 aa (3).

Hays paid very good prices for some of his coins, and while the condition does not run uniformly fine or better, the collection is in excellent shape, and worthy of a place in any cabinet. One trifling objection is caused by Hays marking each piece with the Maris number and letter in a white paste, which rubs off readily if its removal is desired, but may leave a trace of discoloration. A very few are worn, but nearly all are in good to extremely fine condition, many being fine or better.

Collection contains 102 pieces. Price, 125.00.

COLLECTION OF CONNECTICUT CENTS. 1785-1788.

Connecticut. The entire Hays collection. Crosby's arrangement of this coinage, the only available, is based on the differences of punctuation. This is not entirely satisfactory, as similar punctuation is often found on very dissimilar coins. In fact, Crosby states, page 217, that his No. 33 of 1787 requires at least 79 pieces to show all the dies and combinations of same. Hays intended to issue a work in which Crosby's classification was elaborated to include every die, with full description to identify it, the variations being given as sub-numbers of Crosby: 33–1, 33–2, etc. He had completed in manuscript these descriptions as far as he could go, and even went to the trouble and expense of privately printing a 58-page book on the 1787 issues. Only 4 copies of this book, it is said, were printed, as he only wanted these few copies for personal use and for a few friends who were helping him in making corrections and additions. His personal copy, with corrections and additions inserted, as well as his manuscript book of all the issues, 1785–1788, goes with the collection. This work, practically completed, took many tedious hours of Hays' time, and cost him a large amount. With very little additional effort it could be published and a substantial addition made to numismatic knowledge of the subject.

Hays examined hundreds of Connecticuts in his effort to procure the best specimens obtainable to show the varying dies, and spent a large sum on the collection. They are generally in excellent condition, and except in some cases, where he had two or more pieces to show every part of the coin plainly, the duplicates are not included. He marked each coin with the same white paste as on the New Jerseys, but in this case it helps greatly in arranging.

Collection contains 277 pieces. Price, 150.00.

COLLECTION OF 2303 BROKEN BANK BILLS.

This large collection, when purchased several years ago, contained some duplicates, which after 5 days' careful work have all been taken out. It is distinctively a Bank Bill Collection, and does not include the Southern State, County and City issues of the Confederate War period. The values run from $1 to $500, with perhaps a dozen or so fractions of the dollar. There are a number of the odd values, $3, 4, 6, 7, 8, 9. So large a collection must of necessity include many rare notes. In fact, in going over it many were noticed for the first time after years of handling similar lines. While there are notes in all conditions, the better grade greatly predominate, and the condition is far better than the general run of note collections.

Grouped by States they are as follows: Alabama 39—Arkansas 2—Connecticut 52—Delaware 19—Dist. Columbia 84—Florida 32—Georgia 218—Illinois 19—Indiana 91—Iowa 6—Kansas 6—Kentucky 28—Louisiana 50—Maine 41—Maryland 92—Massachusetts 338—Michigan 69—Minnesota 4—Missouri 10—Mississippi 68—Montana 4—Nebraska 25—New Hampshire 19—New Jersey 109—New York 180—North Carolina 95—Ohio 40—Pennsylvania 106—Rhode Island 56—South Carolina 81—Tennessee 114—Texas 3—Vermont 50—Virginia 107—Wisconsin 7—Canada 39.

Price of the collection of 2303 notes, 225.00.

Owing to lack of time, no comparison of the above with the 700 collection in $25,000 catalogue could be made, but it is believed that several hundred additional, differing, could be secured from it. There is also a lot of 45 early bills, 1800–1815, catalogued at $15, that would help enlarge the number. Any person wishing to buy these two items with the above collection can have all for 300.00.
